THE COMMUNITY SOLUTION

The Community Solution group emphasizes finding post-carbon solutions to food, housing and transportation. They are building a fully sustainable community, called Agraria, in Yellow Springs, OH. Their site provides the text of a number of presentations they have made to a wide variety of groups, and a series of guidelines for how to organize and present talks about peak oil and post-carbon living.

Talks and Presentations

<http://www.communitysolution.org/talks.html>

Look below to access links to a series of five articles that provide guidance for folks like us in organizing and making presentations on peak oil and the post-carbon world to our local communities. It's under the heading "Resources for Giving Peak Oil Presentations in Your Area."

New Solutions Reports

<http://www.communitysolution.org/nsreports.html>

Community Solutions also holds an annual conference at their headquarters in Yellow Springs. The first was in 2007, and they offer DVDs of the major addresses given at the conferences for a price of $124.00 each. We can also buy DVDs of individual presentations for anywhere from $10-20. No DVD is available for the 2004 conference, but the text of major addresses is available. I think these DVDs might be a great resource for us, and could serve as a source of inspiration, as well.

One presentation in particular bears our attention. It was presented by Rob Hopkins, an activist who has founded a sustainable community named Transition Town Totnes in England, and offers a methodology for building very positive community spirit and commitment to sustainability that may go a long way toward realizing Jim Peterson's vision of a positive outcome to this whole mess. Please read it.

Energy Expert Warns About Peak Oil

Fast Company Magazine ran a very long article in its June, 2008 edition titled "Special Report: China In Africa." Written by Richard Behar, the series of six articles looks in depth at the incursion China is making into the various countries in Africa in search of the raw materials needed to fuel its burgeoning economic growth. It also looks at the increasingly impotent influence the U.S. has in Africa, and the potential consequences for the availability of resources for the U.S. in the future. I highly recommend we all read this article. Note that the following link is to the first of the six articles in the series; the remaining five are accessible thru links on the left side of the screen. Highly recommended.
